Sidelines photographer John Minoprio attended the 2018 CHIO Aachen and captured a photo of the famous farewell to the nations. Equestrian athletes from around the world compete in jumping, dressage, eventing, four-in-hand driving and vaulting at Aachen and are cheered on by approximately 350,000 visitors. Aachen is famous for its exceptional atmosphere, including a special event on Sunday evening when the final competition has been decided and both the spectators and the participants pull out their white handkerchiefs to wave goodbye to each other and promise to meet up again at next year's event.
