Andrew Ramsay (USA) rode Stranger 30 to a victory in the $35,000 Old Salem Farm Jumper Classic CSI3*, presented by Wells Fargo, The Private Bank, on Saturday, May 20, at the 2017 Old Salem Farm Spring Horse Shows, running through May 21 at Old Salem Farm in North Salem, NY.

"It has been a great experience to be here. Showing on the field is wonderful. It is a nice, natural field with some slope, and the ground is good. Stranger is naturally a very quick horse. He is quick across the ground and quite quick over the fences, so he is effective and that helps. I think we had a small edge everywhere and it was a lot of fun." ~Andrew Ramsay

Ramsay originally hails from San Francisco, CA, and is competing at Old Salem Farm for the first time during the 2017 Spring Horse Shows. After several top finishes throughout the two-week show, Ramsay and Stranger 30, owned by The Stranger Group, were the final pair to return in an 11-horse jump-off over tracks built by 2017 Longines FEI World Cup™ Jumping Final course designer Alan Wade (IRL).

Callie Seaman Claims $10,000 USHJA International Hunter Derby, Presented by The Gochman Family

Amateur rider Callie Seaman of Greenwich, CT, led the victory gallop in the $10,000 USHJA International Hunter Derby, presented by The Gochman Family, for her first international derby win riding her own Skorekeeper.

"As an amateur, you are hoping to do as well as the professionals, so to go in and win is an unexplainable and really exciting feeling. I have had Skorekeeper for three years and done him consistently in the derbies and I have always come close, so to finally win is really exciting and a dream come true coming off what has been a year of dreams come true so far." ~Callie Seaman

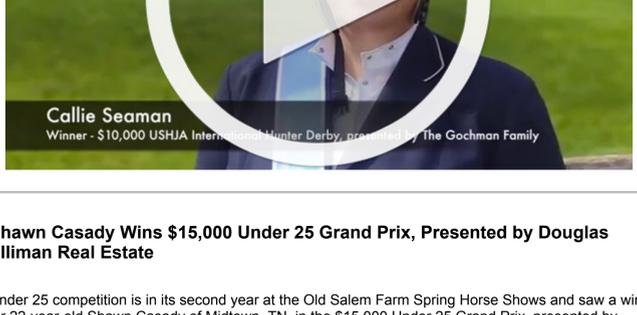

Seaman and Skorekeeper, a 13-year-old Warmblood gelding by Casall were sitting second on a first-round score of 171, and returned with the top 12 to complete the second handy round set by course designer Eric Mayberry of Myakka City, FL. Seaman posted a score of 187 over the handy track to earn a final score of 358 for the win.

Shawn Casady Wins $15,000 Under 25 Grand Prix, Presented by Douglas Elliman Real Estate

Under 25 competition is in its second year at the Old Salem Farm Spring Horse Shows and saw a win for 22-year-old Shawn Casady of Midtown, TN, in the $15,000 Under 25 Grand Prix, presented by Douglas Elliman Real Estate, on Saturday.

"There weren't too many places where you could take a shot. My strategy was to give her the best chance she could to do the numbers and hope that since I was on a little faster mover I could make the time. A half of a second is a little too close for comfort, but I am glad to win." ~Shawn Casady
