

December 2020 News

www.stonehengestables.com

Winter Begins in Wellington

Stonehenge Stables packed the trailer and made the trip down to Wellington, FL, which they'll call home for the next few months. While the Winter Equestrian Festival doesn't officially begin until January, the horses are getting settled in and accustomed to the change of scenery. Follow us on Instagram and Facebook to keep up with our 2021 show season.

Working on Wellness: Max Amaya

Horse & Style Magazine

Max Amaya and Raleigh Hiler. Photo by Jump Media

I believe everyone should have their own escape from the industry they work in. It's important to dedicate time each week to clear your mind from everything going on in your industry. In my case, it's boating. If I can spend one day each week on my boat, whether it's cleaning it or just enjoying it, that really relaxes me.

I love having friends out on the boat and drinking wine and just relaxing on the water. The time I look forward to most each year is the four to five day trip from New Jersey to Florida on the boat after Indoors wraps up.

Read More

TJ O'Mara Featured in 2020 Edition of Hot Horsemen

Sidelines Magazine

Photo by Kind Media

TJ O'Mara grew up watching his three older sisters ride. Even when he began riding himself, though, it was uncertain if "horseman" was in his future. "Initially, I wasn't attached to horses," TJ admitted, "but after experiencing a bond with one particular horse, I was hooked — I also took any chance I got to be competitive with my sisters!"

That competitive spirit led TJ through a successful junior career to becoming a professional, when he balanced riding professionally with graduating from the University of Kentucky in only three years. TJ now works for Max Amaya at Stonehenge Stables in Colts Neck, New Jersey, and Wellington, Florida.

Read More

Campbell Hudkins Earns USHJA Youth Leadership Award

To end a stellar year, 13-year-old Campbell Hudkins was honored during the USHJA Evening of Equestrians for receiving the USHJA Youth Leadership Award. Along with competing in the Hunters, Jumpers, and Equitation, including winning the 2020 EMO Insurance/USHJA Jumping Seat Medal Final - East, Hudkins is involved in the day-to-day care and management of her horses on her family farm. She has also raised more than $3,000 for the USHJA Feed Aid Program. For her award she received a complimentary three-year USHJA Active Membership, a commemorative trophy, and a Charles Owen helmet.

Campbell Hudkins and Canterbury. Photo by Shawn McMillen Photography.

Winter Show Schedule

January - March
Winter Equestrian Festival - Wellington, FL

Follow Us

Keep up with the latest Stonehenge Stables news and photos on Facebook and Instagram!

Stonehenge Stables is a leading show jumping training operation located in Colts Neck, New Jersey and Wellington, Florida. Stonehenge's program is focused on building a strong riding foundation rooted in traditional equitation principles, leading to success across all levels.

Stonehenge Stables' New Jersey farm is easily accessible from New York City and the tri-state area, with students of varying levels coming to train at Stonehenge from across the United States. Stonehenge provides a range of training from short stirrup to grand prix, but one priority is always shared: the horses always come first. Learn more or inquire about training with Stonehenge Stables by visiting www.StonehengeStables.com.