USET Foundation Raises More Than $2 Million at 'Victory in Versailles' Benefit Gala

USET FOUNDATION

The USET Foundation's "Victory in Versailles" Benefit Gala presented by Lugano Diamonds was a spectacular evening that celebrated our U.S. equestrian teams and raised more than $2 million! Funds from the event will help ensure our athletes have the resources to be prepared for the biggest stage in sport, the 2024 Olympic and Paralympic Games in Paris, France. In addition to supporting the US Equestrian (USEF) High Performance Programs and elite athletes and horses, USET Foundation funding also supports developing athletes through USEF's High Performance Pathway Programs such as the FEI North American Youth Championships and USEF's international developing tours.

Foot Soreness in Competition Horses: The Importance of Keeping Your Horse Comfortable Throughout the Winter Show Season

THE PLAID HORSE

As the busy winter competition season gets underway, vets at Palm Beach Equine Clinic in Wellington, FL, emphasize the importance of staying ahead of physical setbacks with preventative measures. Foot soreness, especially for jumpers, becomes more noticeable after a few months of showing and can lead to further complications. Therefore, the best course of action is to be aware of what impacts the health and condition of your horse's feet and make a plan to help mitigate soreness.

US To Host Most CDIs of Any Nation in 2024

THE CHRONICLE OF THE HORSE

The United States is set to host 28 international dressage competitions and championships in 2024, the most of any nation. The schedule features three times as many CDI4*s as 2023, including the first CDI4* at World Equestrian Center—Ocala (FL), and the return of CDIs to Del Mar, CA. But the large number of competitions doesn't always equate to a large number of entries.

"We're seeing dressage grow across all the levels, including [Fédération Equestre Internationale] levels, and that means that athletes need somewhere that they can compete, so organizers have stepped up," said Laura Roberts, managing director of dressage for the U.S. Equestrian Federation.

A BIT OF GOOD NEWS

Preventing Equine Neglect and Abuse Through Owner-to-Owner Assistance Programs

HORSE NETWORK

Equine rescue organizations are widely known for the rehabilitation and rehoming of horses that have been saved from neglect or abuse.

However, helping an individual transition their horse to a new owner when the animal is a lesser-known but equally important service that few, if any, organizations around the United States can help facilitate.

In February 2022, Woodbine, Maryland-based Days End Farm Horse Rescue (DEFHR), a 501(c)(3) equine welfare organization and national leader in equine rescue, rehabilitation, and education, absorbed the Maryland Equine Transition Service (METS), a Maryland-based equine safety-net initiative for horses in need of transition.
