Client Spotlight

Days End Horse Farm Rescue

Leigha Schrader: "I am the intern who never left DEFHR."

"The biggest challenges I face usually come from the pressure to make the best decisions possible for our horses. I work with a great team, and we take great pride in the responsibility of making decisions that keep horses safe for the remainder of their days."

World's First Gene-Edited Horses Are Shaking Up the Genteel Sport of Polo

Five genetically edited foals have been born in Buenos Aires. Clones of a successful polo pony, these horses were further genetically enhanced using CRISPR technology to affect the expression of a gene that limits muscle growth. These foals were meant for the polo fields, but with others in the industry raising concerns over the circumstances of their breeding, will they make there?
